Farmers Asked To Cut Food Crops

INCREASE IN CORN, COTTON ACREAGE URGED

Livestock Production To Be Lower In 1946 Than In Recent Years

EGG AND MILK CUTS ASKED

Large Increase In Sugar Acreage Recommended By Government Officials

WASHINGTON, Dec. 1—The government today handed farmers blueprint for 1946 production outlining cutbacks from high wartime levels for most food crops, livestock and livestock products.

Secretary of Agriculture Clinton P. Anderson, in announcing national farm production goals for next year, urged farmers to plant 356,244,000 acres in crops.

This would be 5,500,000 acres more than were cultivated this year, but boosts in corn and cotton production make up most of the increase. The goals call for cuts ranging from 4 to 10 per cent in rice, dry peas, potatoes, vegetables for canning and peanuts.

The goals for poultry, milk and eggs clearly set for a reconversion pattern for farmers in 1946. They were asked to produce 2,500,000,000 pounds less milk, 670,000,000 dozen less eggs, 35 per cent fewer turkeys and 10 per cent fewer chickens.

It was urged that cattle herds, considered too large for present feed reserves and potential meat demand be reduced by another 1,600,000 head by the end of 1946.

Only for sugar, still the nation's worst food shortage, was a large increase recommended. Producers were asked to increase sugar beet production by 31 per cent and sugar cane output by 8.

On the whole, however, the goals program follows a "middle-of-the-road" policy. No drastic reductions were sought in the first postwar year. It was apparent, though, that in the government's view the record-breaking food production of wartime years will be undesirable for peacetime demand.

Anderson reported that he was seeking "continued high production" because the war's end has not brought an end to the "almost unlimited need for American food."

He said that meeting the suggested goals will give civilians greater supplies of most major commodities than during the war.

"At the same time," he added, "we are not forgetting our allies who now face hunger because war destroyed or damaged their normal food production."

He said the departments program recognizes the need for "restoring a better balance" between soil-depleting and soil-conserving crops. Increases were urged for the feed grains to rebuild the ever-normal granary of prewar years.

PROBES STUDY 800,000 More Soldiers Eligible For Discharge; Solons Urge Draft End

Solons Determined To Find Reason For Messages Taking So Long

WASHINGTON, Dec. 1—The Pearl Harbor investigating committee is determined to nail down the reason for the delay in decoding and translating Japanese messages intercepted before the Dec. 7, 1941, attack.

The committee took a week-end recess today but expects to plunge back into the question when hearings resume Monday. Maj. Gen. Sherman Miles, who was head of Army intelligence at the time, will return to the witness chair.

Evidence before the committee shows that some Japanese messages on ship movements and defense installations at Pearl Harbor were intercepted before the attack but not decoded and translated until days afterward.

Miles sought to explain some of the delay to the committee yesterday.

He explained that the intercepts were taken at various points and relayed to Washington for decoding and translation. Some intercept stations had direct teletype contact with Washington. Others used air mail.

It took special equipment and specially trained personnel to decode Japanese messages because of language difficulties he said. Sometimes they weren't adequate to handle the flood of traffic. There were "security" limitations which restricted the number of Japanese.

OHIO UNIVERSITY TO PAY TRIBUTE TO 201 HEROES

ATHENS, O., Dec. 1—Ohio university will pay tribute to 201 former students who lost their lives in World War II at a memorial service to be held in Alumni Memorial Auditorium here Sunday.

University president J. C. Baker today invited the parents, wives and other close relatives of the gold star men to the service. Dr. J. Harry Coffey, president of the McCormick Theological Seminary of Chicago and former Columbus, O., pastor will speak at the service.

Engraved war memorial certificates will be presented to the parents and wives at a university reception following the service.

Thirty-six of the gold star men were from the Cleveland area and 17 from greater Columbus.

800,000 More Soldiers Eligible For Discharge; Solons Urge Draft End

WASHINGTON, Dec. 1—More than 800,000 additional Army personnel, including nearly 40,000 members of the medical corps, became eligible for discharge today as congressmen renewed their demands for an immediate end of the draft.

The war department last night announced new point scores which will let out 15,000 doctors, 5,000 dentists, 4,000 medical administrative corps officers, 500 physiotherapists, 300 dieticians, 350 sanitary corps and 400 veterinary corps officers.

At the same time previously announced cuts in critical scores, age and service requirements, effective today, made another 783,000 Army officers and enlisted men and women eligible for immediate discharge.

The Navy announced that 3,469,000 Army and Navy personnel were returned from the Atlantic, Pacific and China-Burma-India theaters through Nov. 27. It said all Army personnel other than occupation and service forces would be back from Europe by the end.

BOWLES JOINS CHARGES SOME ITEMS WITHHELD

WASHINGTON, Dec. 1—For the third time in the past week a high government official has publicly complained that industry is holding up shipments of consumer goods until the new year to profit by reduced taxes.

The excess profits tax on corporations will end the first of next year.

Price Administrator Chester Bowles today joined Reconversion Director John W. Snyder and John D. Small, civilian production administrator, in taking cognizance of the "withholding" problem.

Bowles lashed out at the clothing industry in a press statement. He said that "companies can look forward to a windfall if they withhold shipments now and release them next year when the excess profits tax is out of the picture."

"Under the circumstances," he stated, "the public's need for clothes seems to mean very little to some producers."

Snyder in a recent speech and Small in testimony at a congressional hearing this week stated that there were some evidences that such withholding of goods was going on but that the government had insufficient evidence so far to bring suspects to court.

Bowles said that the clothing situation was also complicated by several other factors, and admitted that it will be some time before civilian clothing is plentiful.

PRESSURE FOR PROBE GROWING

Public Airing Of 'Sabotage' On Foreign Policy Almost Assured

WASHINGTON, Dec. 1—Congressional pressure today virtually assured a public airing of charges that state department representatives have been acting contrary to U. S. policy, particularly in China.

Chairman Tom Connally, D. Tex., of the senate foreign relations committee revealed he would ask the committee to admit the public and the press on Wednesday when it hears the story of Patrick J. Hurley, who resigned as ambassador to China. Hurley charged procommunist and pro-imperialist foreign service representatives under-mined his diplomatic work in China.

The foreign relations committee will vote Monday on whether to follow Connally's lead and thus order the first open meeting of the committee at this session of congress.

Hurley also was invited to testify before the house un-American activities committee, which wanted his testimony on "any un-American activity going on anywhere."

Chairman John S. Wood, D. Ga., said Hurley could appear Friday or "at some other early date convenient to him," and that the hearing would be open to press and public.

CONFAB RESULTS ARE STUDIED BY ADMINISTRATION

WASHINGTON, Dec. 1—Administration leaders today studied achievements of the labor-management conference to determine whether they will help end current strikes and head off future industrial troubles.

Secretary of Labor Lewis B. Schwellenbach said that he expected to complete a report by Monday for submission to President Truman on the success of the conference which ended a 26-day session last night.

The administration's views on what the conference has accomplished will have an important bearing on labor-restraining legislation now before congress.

Administration leaders in the house are reported to be trying to stall consideration of such legislation—presumably to give the President a chance to weigh the results of the conference and formulate new administration policy on industrial disputes.

Work Resumption Up To UAW Company Says; Hopes For End Of Strike

NO 'BREAKDOWN' SEEN

Company Thinks Government Intervention Is Not Needed Is Belief

DETROIT, Dec. 1—Partial resumption of General Motors operations to provide parts for other car makers was up to the United Automobile Workers union (CIO) today.

The management proposed such a work resumption and expressed hope that negotiations with the UAW might lead to an end of the GM strike now in its 11th day.

In a letter to R. J. Thomas, head of the powerful union, Corporation President C. E. Wilson offered to reopen GM parts and accessories divisions to work exclusively on material for other auto manufacturers. A union reply today was indicated by a spokesman for Thomas.

At the same time, Harry W. Anderson, GM vice president, said the resuming of talks yesterday with union leaders on the company charges of "illegal" picketing proved that "there is no breakdown in negotiations" and that they would lead to negotiations on "all other matters involved."

Anderson's remark indicated the company felt government intervention was not needed to end the strike of 175,000 UAW members.

However, the union, through Vice President Walter P. Reuther, indicated that negotiations on the basic 30 per cent wage increase demand would remain deadlocked until the company altered its position. Wilson has asked that the union modify its demand as a prelude to negotiations on the wage issue, but Reuther said any alteration would have to be made in bargaining sessions, not before.

In this connection, he emphasized again his view that wages must be tied to the ability to pay, an attitude which has been one of the major stumbling blocks to labor peace with GM.

Reuther was getting poor response from his invitations to 20.

RUSSIA REJECTS IRAN REQUEST ON TROOP MOVES

MOSCOW, Dec. 1—The Tass news agency said in a dispatch from Tehran today that the Soviet government officially had rejected an Iranian request to move reinforcements into northern Iran.

Tass said the government considered it "not expedient to grant such measures at present in view of the necessity to prevent complications undesirable for both the Soviet and Iranian governments."

Tehran sought permission to move reinforcements to northern Iran where an uprising against government authority occurred. Insurgent forces captured a number of towns in the Azerbaijan region.

The Tass dispatch said the Iranians had charged that Kurdish bands creating disturbances in Iranian Kurdistan received Soviet support; that the Russians hindered transport from northern to southern Iran; that the Russians caused difficulties in the appointment of Iranian officials in the northern provinces; that the Soviets interfered with the administration of Iranian courts, and were responsible for incidents in several cities of northern Iran.

Russia's reply to the Iranian note said that all the accusations were entirely unfounded, and that the Iranians themselves were unable to present facts to support them.

NO. 3 NAZI WANTED TO TAKE KING TO GERMANY WITH HIM

Hitler Furious When He Received Letter Telling Of Flight After Hess Left, Herman Goering Tells Writer

By ANN STRINGER
United Press Staff Correspondent

NUERNBERG, Dec. 1—Rudolf Hess parachuted into Britain in 1941 to bring King George VI back to Germany for a peace conference before Adolf Hitler opened his attack on Russia, the United Press learned exclusively today.

Hitler knew nothing of his deputy fuhrer's scheme until he read a letter Hess left behind, it was learned. The fuhrer was left speechless, then began raging at everyone possibly connected with Hess.

In a statement Hess said he set out to bring about peace because he could not accept the fact that "the two greatest peoples on earth were attempting to annihilate each other."

Hess prepared his flight so secretly that he didn't even tell his wife he was going. Nobody knew of his intentions except his adjutant and secretary, both of whom were arrested later.

Hitler, when he recovered control of himself, told Hermann Goering—so Goering told interrogators—that Hess was mad to try "an impossible mission like that."

Hess parachuted onto the Scottish estate of the Duke of Hamilton on May 10, 1941. He flew a Messerschmitt plane from Germany and later boasted of his superior navigational ability which enabled him to make a pinpoint landing on the duke's estate as he had intended.

Before taking off, Hess wrote a letter to Hitler describing the purpose of his flight.

Goering said he was called into the fuhrer's office as soon as Hitler got the letter.

"When I found him he was sitting at his desk holding Hess' letter in his hand. He was not moving. After several minutes the fuhrer limply handed the letter to me to read. He was speechless," Goering said.

"Then he became furious. He started raging and called in everyone who 'could possibly have known anything about it.'"

Goering said he and Joachim von Ribbentrop, Nazi foreign minister, (Continued on Page Two)

WAR CRIMES COURT RULES HESS IS SANE

NUERNBERG, Dec. 1—The war crimes tribunal ruled today that Rudolf Hess is sane and ordered him to remain on trial beside his 19 Nazi co-defendants, who were dumbfounded to learn that Hess has been faking a loss of memory.

Lord Justice Sir Geoffrey Lawrence, British presiding justice, announced when court opened today that the tribunal considered Hess sane after his melodramatic statement yesterday confessing that he had faked his loss of memory.

Hess asked that he be permitted to continue in the trial and the tribunal agreed to his request.

Hess rose unexpectedly yesterday after hearing more than two hours' argument about his mental condition and confessed to the startled courtroom that he had been faking his loss of memory.

He said that he accepted full responsibility for everything he has done or signed. He asked for permission to remain beside his 19 comrades and be judged with them.

For weeks Hess had pretended to remember nothing whatsoever about his flight from Germany to Scotland, nor his dealings as No. 2 Nazi. An international body of psychologists had argued learnedly about his peculiar type of amnesia and submitted detailed reports proposing that he be released from trial for a 15 to 30 day cure.

Hess said there never had been anything wrong with him, but he had faked it all "for tactical reasons."

After his statement his attorney, Dr. Guenther von Rohrscheidt, said it was only another proof that Hess was unbalanced. Rohrscheidt had just finished an hour-long appeal to the court to find that Hess was insane.

Maj. Douglas Kelley, American prison psychiatrist, who had spent nearly 100 hours examining Hess, said after the outburst that it was the "typical action of a hysterical person." He had diagnosed Hess' case as a mixture of hysteria and malingering.

Kelley said he always had felt that sooner or later something would break down Hess' protective mental wall but warned that Hess might get an amnesia complex again.

The general was convicted of murder for authorizing the execution of the 15 Americans caught behind the German lines in northern Italy during March, 1944.

The Americans were members of the office of strategic services engaged on a secret expedition to blow up both ends of a railroad tunnel near Genoa. When caught, they were wearing American uniforms without insignia.

Dostler admitted ordering their death, but claimed that he was acting on orders from Adolf Hitler. His conviction was considered the first important legal precedent that orders from Hitler were not sufficient defense for murder.

Defendants in the Nuernberg trial are expected to use the same type of defense, claiming "non-responsibility for their actions."

CITIES GIVE UNO DELEGATES SALES TALKS

LONDON, Dec. 1—United Nations delegates listened to hours of American travelogues and speeches today and looked at movies and brochures designed to persuade the UNO to establish its permanent headquarters in certain parts of the United States.

Atlantic City, the Black Hills, Boston and Chicago presented their cases to the preparatory commission's sub-committee this morning, and others were scheduled for the afternoon.

Contesting claims ranged from a no-strike pledge by Boston labor against the UNO to a Black Hills contention that no one ever would waste an atomic bomb on that sparsely settled area.

The Boston delegation bore down on the city's old world atmosphere and educational and recreational facilities. The Bostonians appeared in diplomatic morning dress—black coats and striped pants.

Atlantic City took the shortest time of the morning contestants—only five minutes for presentation, leaving its case to a brochure.

Chicago and Boston showed films. Chicago emphasized that it typified the heart and thinking of the United States, and that it was the strategic center of the world.

Hitler, when he recovered control of himself, told Hermann Goering—so Goering told interrogators—that Hess was mad to try "an impossible mission like that."

Hess parachuted onto the Scottish estate of the Duke of Hamilton on May 10, 1941. He flew a Messerschmitt plane from Germany and later boasted of his superior navigational ability which enabled him to make a pinpoint landing on the duke's estate as he had intended.

Before taking off, Hess wrote a letter to Hitler describing the purpose of his flight.

Goering said he was called into the fuhrer's office as soon as Hitler got the letter.

"When I found him he was sitting at his desk holding Hess' letter in his hand. He was not moving. After several minutes the fuhrer limply handed the letter to me to read. He was speechless," Goering said.

"Then he became furious. He started raging and called in everyone who could possibly have known anything about it."

Goering said he and Joachim von Ribbentrop, Nazi foreign minister, (Continued on Page Two)

WAR CRIMES COURT RULES HESS IS SANE

NUERNBERG, Dec. 1—The war crimes tribunal ruled today that Rudolf Hess is sane and ordered him to remain on trial beside his 19 Nazi co-defendants, who were dumbfounded to learn that Hess has been faking a loss of memory.

Lord Justice Sir Geoffrey Lawrence, British presiding justice, announced when court opened today that the tribunal considered Hess sane after his melodramatic statement yesterday confessing that he had faked his loss of memory.

Hess asked that he be permitted to continue in the trial and the tribunal agreed to his request.

Hess rose unexpectedly yesterday after hearing more than two hours' argument about his mental condition, and confessed to the startled courtroom that he had been faking his loss of memory.

He said that he accepted full responsibility for everything he has done or signed. He asked for permission to remain beside his 19 comrades and be judged with them.

For weeks Hess had pretended to remember nothing whatsoever about his flight from Germany to Scotland, nor his dealings as No. 2 Nazi. An international body of psychologists had argued learnedly about his peculiar type of amnesia and submitted detailed reports proposing that he be released from trial for a 15 to 30 day cure.

Hess said there never had been anything wrong with him, but he had faked it all "for tactical reasons."

After his statement his attorney, Dr. Guenther von Rohrscheidt, said it was only another proof that Hess was unbalanced. Rohrscheidt had just finished an hour-long appeal to the court to find that Hess was insane.

Maj. Douglas Kelley, American prison psychiatrist, who had spent nearly 100 hours examining Hess, said after the outburst that it was the "typical action of a hysterical person." He had diagnosed Hess' case as a mixture of hysteria and malingering.

Kelley said he always had felt that sooner or later something would break down Hess' protective mental wall but warned that Hess might get an amnesia complex again.

AVERSA, Italy, Dec. 1—Gen. Antonio Dostler of the German army was executed by a 12-man American firing squad today for the murder without trial of 15 American O. S. S. men.

Dostler, 54, was the first German general tried and convicted by the western allies as a war criminal. He died in the No. 1 stockade here in a stolid and soldierly manner befitting the Prussian tradition.

The general was convicted of murder for authorizing the execution of the 15 Americans caught behind the Germans lines in northern Italy during March, 1944.

The Americans were members of the office of strategic services engaged on a secret expedition to blow up both ends of a railroad tunnel near Genoa. When caught, they were wearing American uniforms without insignia.

Dostler admitted ordering their death, but claimed that he was acting on orders from Adolf Hitler. His conviction was considered the first important legal precedent that orders from Hitler were not sufficient defense for murder.

Defendants in the Nuernberg trial are expected to use the same type of defense, claiming non-responsibility for their actions.

G-M PROPOSES TO BUILD PARTS FOR CUSTOMERS

Influential persons to review the GM negotiations and recommend a settlement.

Tax expert Beardsley Ruml, one of those invited in the union's direct bid for public support, said in New York that he "will not be able to attend" Reuther's meeting scheduled for next Tuesday and Wednesday.

Rabbi Stephen Wise said he telegraphed Detroit that he would like to serve but was not sure he could leave New York City. Bishop G. Bromley Oxnam cannot attend because he is in Germany. His wife said. And Ralph McGill, editor of the Atlanta Constitution, said he had to decline the union invitation "because of previous engagements."

Reuther's plan for an "impartial" public examination of the UAW-GM records called for the 20-man committee including such other outstanding Americans as Bernard Baruch and President James B. Conant of Harvard University.

In his letter to Thomas, Wilson said the company was "willing to operate all our parts and accessories divisions during the period of the strike exclusively on outside work—that is, on material required by manufacturers other than General Motors car, truck and body divisions."

The GM executive said the strike has "shut off the flow of material" other manufacturers need "to build cars, trucks and other finished products." This was in line with a repeated warning from industry spokesmen that the GM strike, if long continued, would lead to a shutdown of all but one other auto-building firms, a virtually complete halt on production of 1946 models.

Wilson said his offer to reopen the parts and accessories divisions would include a "definite understanding" that no union members called back from picket lines would do any work "not involved in the production and shipment of these materials to outside manufacturers."

"While we think it very unfair for your union to single out General Motors for your 'labor blockade' to enforce your demands on the whole industry, nevertheless it has always been our principle to take care of our customers if there is any possible way to do it," Wilson said.

Meanwhile, the union and company prepared to continue discussions next Wednesday on the picket issue. That was the sole subject of a session yesterday between Reuther and Anderson, the first meeting since before the strike started.

Anderson said the present recess in the picketing talks was to enable union officials to "go out among their boys and see for themselves what's going on."

The corporation charged that the union was violating the law by barring office and supervisory employees from the 93 strikebound plants.

OHIO BUSINESS HITS NEW HIGH IN WAR YEARS

COLUMBUS, Dec. 1—Business in Ohio during the six year war period ending in August, 1945, reached unprecedented highs with the volume doubled and tripled in some fields, the bulletin of business research published monthly by the Ohio State University indicated today.

The October issue recently released indicated that the number of Ohio businesses which failed during August was 91 per cent less than the number which failed in August, 1939.

Agricultural income from marketing increased 191 per cent over the period—almost triple of the 1939 level. But the cost of living also increased in the state by 30 per cent from the beginning of the war in Europe to final unconditional surrender.

Department store sales were up 168 per cent in August as a result of the war while retail sales as a whole were up 46 per cent over August, 1939.

Coal production, retail trade, dyers and cleaners sales, apparel and food sales all increased in August, 1945 over the previous month. Bank deposits dropped 2 per cent in September from the August figure, a summary of recent changes indicated.

Agricultural income also dropped in September over the previous month of this year by 14 per cent electric power production was down 8 per cent for the same period.

Employment in the state dropped two per cent in August from the July figure while payrolls dropped 12 per cent in August from July and 19 per cent from August, 1944.

Hess also wrote a letter to the Duke of Hamilton in German. Ernest Bohle, then under secretary of the German foreign office, translated it into English for him. Bohle explained later that he did so without any thought that Hess would try to deliver it in person. He believed Hess would try to meet the duke in some neutral country.

Hess said he chose the duke as the man to see first because he knew the duke and believed he could lead him directly to King George.

The day before the flight Hess had luncheon with several high ranking Nazi friends, including Alfred Rosenberg, at his home. He spent most of the day playing with his young son, then went secretly to the airfield.

When Hess landed in Scotland, he was immediately taken prisoner by a farmer with a pitchfork. He was held as a prisoner of war in Britain under close guard until he was brought to Nuremberg. He never has been permitted to make a public statement about his flight.

speaking people that could be hired.

Miles declared that there was no way for deciding which messages should be given a priority for decoding and translation. The only exception was when they were expecting a specific message such as the instructions to Japanese diplomats in Washington to break off negotiations.

Despite his explanation committee members expressed "concern" over the delay.

They asked for "work sheets" in the war department which might show exactly the time a message was intercepted, when it was forwarded to Washington, translated and distributed to the high command.

Their questions also brought out the fact that Brig. Gen. Carter Clarke of Army intelligence made a hitherto secret investigation and report shortly after the Pearl Harbor attack.

Chairman Alben W. Barkley, D., Ky., said the Clarke report is available to the committee but he thought it concerned principally the question of whether the Japanese knew the United States had broken their most secret code.

Barkley said Clarke presumably reported that the Japanese did not know it because the ability to penetrate the code was a closely-guarded secret until the end of the war.

Assistant Counsel Gerhard Gesell said the Clarke report was highly secret because it has to do with the technical side of how the Japanese code was broken. He said the full story of the Pearl Harbor attack can be told without revealing its contents and that it probably would not be made public.

Hurley was ready and eager to appear before both committees, but for the first time being felt he should testify before the foreign relations group first. He too requested that the hearing be open.

Sens. Arthur Capper, R., Kans., and Alexander Wiley, R., Wis., members of the foreign relations committee, were ready to vote for all possible publicity.

"This whole matter is so important that the public should be completely informed," commented Capper. Wiley added that "few closed hearings accomplish anything."

Congressional criticism of the state department, which broke out openly several weeks ago over the confirmation of Dean Acheson as undersecretary of state, was growing almost hourly.

Rep. Edith Nourse Rogers, R., Mass., introduced a resolution asking Secretary of State James F. Byrnes for "full information relative to the sabotage of our foreign policy in China." It particularly asked details surrounding Hurley's resignation on Tuesday.

Sen. Raymond E. Willis, R., Ind., accused the state department of "devious diplomacy" and called for a general housecleaning "in the coming months." He asked whether the department "is trying to use the army in Europe and Asia to cover up its own serious blunders."

FAMILIES SWAP MATES, HOMES AND CHILDREN

CARSON CITY, Nev., Dec. 1—Two New Jersey families were settling down anew today after swapping mates, children and homes.

Mrs. Elizabeth Faust and Mrs. Mary Preisler, neighbors, decided to divorce their respective mates. They came to Carson City, shared a cottage and were granted divorces by the same judge on the same day.

While their exwives packed yesterday to return to Ally, N. J., their husbands arrived together aboard a chartered plane to remedy matters.

Yesterday afternoon Mrs. Faust became Mrs. Preisler and Mrs. Preisler became Mrs. Faust in a double wedding ceremony performed by Judge Clark J. Guild, who had granted the two wives their divorces a day earlier.

After a family "reunion," the Fausts and the Preislers departed by plane late yesterday for New Jersey where two Faust children await their new stepmother and one Preisler child awaits Mrs. Faust, now Mrs. Preisler.

The administration so far has opposed ending the draft, claiming that the Army and Navy cannot be certain of meeting their occupation and service force needs without it.

In this connection both the Army and Navy said today they would not alter their discharge policies as a result of the new selective service request to local draft boards to defer students, teachers or research workers in the fields of engineering and the sciences.

Draft officials said men now in the armed forces who could qualify as actual or embryo scientists might apply for discharge to go on with their studies or work if they obtained the consent of their commanders. A war department spokesman said, however, that the Army will continue its policy of refusing blanket discharges outside the point system for any special groups. The Navy said it would stick to its present discharge program.

The release of added doctors and dentists follows earlier congressional charges that the Army was hoarding medical men badly needed in civilian life.

Under the new set-up, critical point scores for doctors and dentists were lowered from 80 to 70. Those 48 years old or over and those who have served 42 months or more now are eligible for discharge.

There were a few exceptions. Plastic surgeons, eye, ear and nose specialists, orthopedic surgeons and internal medicine specialists still require 80 points and continuous service since Pearl Harbor to get out.

Seventy points or 45 months service are required for gastroenterologists, cardiologists, urologists, dermatologists, anesthesiologists, psychiatrists, general surgeons, physical therapy officers, radiologists and pathologists.

The point score for nurses was cut from 35 to 25 and the discharge age from 35 to 30. Nurses with two years service and limited service nurses in this country are now eligible for discharge.

of December or in early January, and that all personnel in the China-Burma India theater were expected to be evacuated by April, 1946.

In congress, meanwhile, Sen. Chapman Revercomb, R., W. Va., a member of the senate military affairs committee, said voluntary enlistments were running so high that no further draft is needed.

He said $1,094 men enlisted in the Army during the first half of November alone, whereas President Truman had said it was necessary to draft only 50,000 men a month "to prevent any interference with the return of veterans."

Revercomb was strongly supported by Sens. Walter F. George, D., Ga., Robert A. Taft, R., O., and Milton E. Young, R., N. D. He said his resolution to end drafting of military would be taken up by the military affairs committee Tuesday and that after that the committee will consider a proposal to end the draft.

ficers require 60 instead of 70 points, 42 months of service or they must have reached the age of 42 to be eligible for discharge. Physiotherapists need 25 instead of 40 points or two years service, or they must have reached 30.

The score for dieticians was lowered from 40 to 30 and age requirements from 40 to 35. Sanitary corps officers need 60 instead of 70 points for discharge to be released after 42 months of service or at the age of 42.

The score for veterinary corps officers was cut from 80 to 70, with 42 months of service or 42 years of age alternate qualifications for discharge.

For the Army at large the following reductions in critical scores are now effective: Enlisted men, 60 to 55 points; enlisted WACS, 34 to 32; male officers (except medical), 75 to 73; WAC officers 39 to 37.

Other qualifications for discharge now in effect: Enlisted men—4 years honorable service; three or more dependent children; age 35 or age 35 with two years honorable service.

Enlisted WACS—Married if enlisted prior to May 12, 1945; age 35; age 35 with two years honorable service.

Male officers, except medical—4 years and 3 months of service; age 50.

WAC officers—Married if enlisted prior to May 12, 1945; age 40.

In addition Army personnel in this country no longer needed and not qualified for overseas duty will be discharged even though they do not have the required points.

AUTO RECOVERED

A stolen car from Columbus has been recovered at Nash, seven miles south of Circleville on route 23, by the sheriff's office.

Mr. and Mrs. John Zeigler and daughter Sarah and Mr. and Mrs. Donald Sterner and daughter Donna Wayne all of Duncannon, Pa., arrived Friday to spend several days as guests of Mrs. William E. Strehle and family of Stoutsville and Miss Helen Lucile Pontius of Thatcher.

Vacationers in England can enjoy the privacy and luxury of a private railway coach by engaging for a week or two the reconditioned camping cars, each accommodating six persons, which are sidetracked in the country or by the seashore, according to British Railways.

PROBERS STUDY DECODING DELAY

Miles declared that there was no way for deciding which messages should be given a priority for decoding and translation. The only exception was when they were expecting a specific message such as the instructions to Japanese diplomats in Washington to break off negotiations.

Despite his explanation committee members expressed "concern" over the delay.

They asked for "work sheets" in the war department which might show exactly the time a message was intercepted, when it was forwarded to Washington, translated and distributed to the high command.

Their questions also brought out the fact that Brig. Gen. Carter Clarke of Army intelligence made a hitherto secret investigation and report shortly after the Pearl Harbor attack.

Chairman Alben W. Barkley, D., Ky., said the Clarke report is available to the committee but he thought it concerned principally the question of whether the Japanese knew the United States had broken their most secret code.

Barkley said Clarke presumably reported that the Japanese did not know it because the ability to penetrate the code was a closely-guarded secret until the end of the war.

Assistant Counsel Gerhard Gesell said the Clarke report was highly secret because it has to do with the technical side of how the Japanese code was broken. He said the full story of the Pearl Harbor attack can be told without revealing its contents and that it probably would not be made public.

Hurley was ready and eager to appear before both committees, but for the first time being felt he should testify before the foreign relations group first. He too requested that the hearing be open.

Sens. Arthur Capper, R., Kans., and Alexander Wiley, R., Wis., members of the foreign relations committee, were ready to vote for all possible publicity.

"This whole matter is so important that the public should be completely informed," commented Capper. Wiley added that "few closed hearings accomplish anything."

Congressional criticism of the state department, which broke out openly several weeks ago over the confirmation of Dean Acheson as undersecretary of state, was growing almost hourly.

Rep. Edith Nourse Rogers, R., Mass., introduced a resolution asking Secretary of State James F. Byrnes for "full information relative to the sabotage of our foreign policy in China." It particularly asked details surrounding Hurley's resignation on Tuesday.

Sen. Raymond E. Willis, R., Ind., accused the state department of "devious diplomacy" and called for a general housecleaning "in the coming months." He asked whether the department "is trying to use the army in Europe and Asia to cover up its own serious blunders."

FAMILIES SWAP MATES, HOMES AND CHILDREN

CARSON CITY, Nev., Dec. 1.—Two New Jersey families were settling down anew today after swapping mates, children and homes.

Mrs. Elizabeth Faust and Mrs. Mary Preisler, neighbors, decided to divorce their respective mates. They came to Carson City, shared a cottage and were granted divorces by the same judge on the same day.

While their exwives packed yesterday to return to Ally, N. J., their husbands arrived together aboard a chartered plane to remedy matters.

Yesterday afternoon Mrs. Faust became Mrs. Preisler and Mrs. Preisler became Mrs. Faust in a double wedding ceremony performed by Judge Clark J. Guild, who had granted the two wives their divorces a day earlier.

After a family "reunion," the Fausts and the Preislers departed by plane late yesterday for New Jersey where two Faust children await their new stepmother and one Preisler child awaits Mrs. Faust, now Mrs. Preisler.

SHAFFER RELEASED FROM JAIL ON BOND OF $1,000

Henry Shaffer, 29, York street, who has been held in county jail for investigation in connection with the alleged criminal attack of a five-year-old child, was released on $1,000 bond, posted by his father, Allan Shaffer, Saturday. Shaffer is to appear when the preliminary hearing in Justice of the Peace Harold O. Eveland's court is resumed.

Release of Shaffer on bond blocked plans of the sheriff's office to have Shaffer submit to a lie detector test Sunday.

of December or in early January, and that all personnel in the China-Burma-India theater were expected to be evacuated by April, 1946.

In congress, meanwhile, Sen. Chapman Revercomb, R., W. Va., a member of the senate military affairs committee, said voluntary enlistments were running so high that no further draft is needed. He said $1,094 men enlisted in the Army during the first half of November alone, whereas President Truman had said it was necessary to draft only 50,000 men a month "to prevent any interference with the return of veterans."

Revercomb was strongly supported by Sens. Walter F. George, D., Ga., Robert A. Taft, R., O., and Milton R. Young, R., N. D. He said his resolution to end drafting of fathers would be taken up by the military affairs committee Tuesday and that after that the committee will consider a proposal to end the draft.

The administration so far has opposed ending the draft, claiming that the Army and Navy cannot be certain of meeting their occupation and service force needs without it.

In this connection both the Army and Navy said today they would not alter their discharge policies as a result of the new selective service request to local draft boards to defer students, teachers or research workers in the fields of engineering and the sciences.

Draft officials said men now in the armed forces who could qualify as actual or embryo scientists might apply for discharge to go on with their studies or work if they obtained the consent of their commanders. A war department spokesman said, however, that the Army will continue its policy of refusing blanket discharges outside the point system for any special groups. The Navy said it would stick to its present discharge program.

The release of added doctors and dentists follows earlier congressional charges that the Army was hoarding medical men badly needed in civilian life.

Under the new set-up, critical point scores for doctors and dentists were lowered from 80 to 70. Those 48 years old or over and those who have served 42 months or more now are eligible for discharge.

There were a few exceptions. Plastic surgeons, eye, ear and nose specialists, orthopedic surgeons and internal medicine specialists still require 80 points and continuous service since Pearl Harbor to get out.

Seventy points or 45 months service are required for gastroenterologists, cardiologists, urologists, dermatologists, anesthesiologists, psychiatrists, general surgeons, physical therapy officers, radiologists and pathologists.

The point score for nurses was cut from 35 to 25 and the discharge age from 35 to 30. Nurses with two years service and limited service nurses in this country are now eligible for discharge.

Medical administrative corps officers require 60 instead of 70 points, 42 months of service or they must have reached the age of 42 to be eligible for discharge. Physiotherapists need 25 instead of 40 points or two years service, or they must have reached 30.

The score for dieticians was lowered from 40 to 30 and age requirements from 40 to 35. Sanitary corps officers need 60 instead of 70 points for discharge to be released after 42 months of service or at the age of 42.

The score for veterinary corps officers was cut from 80 to 70, with 42 months of service or 42 years of age alternate qualifications for discharge.

For the Army at large the following reductions in critical scores are now effective: Enlisted men, 60 to 55 points; enlisted WACS, 34 to 32; male officers (except medical), 75 to 73; WAC officers 39 to 37.

Other qualifications for discharge now in effect: Enlisted men—4 years honorable service; three or more dependent children; age 38 or age 35 with two years honorable service. Enlisted WACS—Married if enlisted prior to May 12, 1945; age 38; age 35 with two years honorable service.

Male officers, except medical—4 years and 3 months of service; age 50.

WAC officers—Married if enlisted prior to May 12, 1945; age 40. In addition Army personnel in this country no longer needed and not qualified for overseas duty will be discharged even though they do not have the required points.

These goals were outlined for 1946 livestock and animal products. Milk production cut to 120,500,000,000 pounds from the 123,000,000,000 produced this year; egg production cut to $3,910,000,000 dozen from 4,577,000,000 in 1945; hen numbers cut to 408,063,000 on Jan. 1, 1946, from 469,161,000 a year earlier; 680,000,000 chickens instead of the 469,161,000 this year; 39,700,000 turkeys compared with 44,150,000 this year.

Cattle numbers cut to 78,000,000 by Dec. 31, 1946, compared with 80,200,000 this year; beef cattle reduced to 39,200,000 on Dec. 31 compared with 40,600,000 this year; and 44,800,000 sheep and lambs on Dec. 31, with the same as this year.

Deaths and Funerals

EDWARD HEFFNER

Edward W. Heffner, 76, a Pickaway county native and a former resident of Salt Creek township, died unexpectedly at his home in Westerville, late Thursday after an illness from heart disease.

He is survived by his widow who was Josephine Karshner also of Salt Creek township. Mrs. E. C. Fricke, East Main street and Mrs. Louella Reichelderfer, East Franklin street, are sisters of Mrs. Heffner.

JOSEPH NESSEL

Joseph Edward Nessel, 54, World War I veteran and resident of Williamsport, died unexpectedly Friday at 8:30 p. m. from a heart attack, at the home of his brother Howard Nessel, Washington, D. C.

Mr. Nessel, a retired mechanic had been living alone at his home in Williamsport and had gone to his brother's home the day before he died.

He was a native of Bournville and was the son of William Sherman Nessel and Etta Belle Summers, his wife. Besides the brother at whose home he died he is survived by two other brothers, Ralph, Circleville and Fred, Washington, D. C., and two sisters, Mrs. Mary Mace, Rodney, Mich., and Miss Nellie Nessel, Columbus.

He was a member of the Methodist church at Bournville and of the local post, Veterans of Foreign Wars, having spent 18 months overseas during World War I.

Funeral arrangements under the direction of C. E. Hill, Williamsport are incomplete.

MAKING THEM UNDERSTAND
AMERICANS naturally like to feel that, along with our fighting and winning these two terrible wars, we have gained something permanent and worth while for the world in general. We look naturally into the principles of a situation, along with its outward accomplishments. We want to know particularly whether we have taught the militaristic Germans and Japanese such a lesson that they will be less likely to force us into such conflicts again. It is disheartening, therefore, to find expert American observers reporting that apparently the Germans and Japanese are not sorry for their crimes, but only sorry that they have lost, and so ethically they are no better off than they were before. If this is really true, the facts should be brought home to all Japanese and Germans, and emphasized and drilled into their souls, until they absorb these fundamental truths as far as they are capable of ethical understanding. Otherwise life with them in the future will be as perilous and futile as it has been in the past.

CHRISTMAS
CHRISTMAS in 1945 should be the happiest in many years. It accompanies the return of long-absent members of so many families, and the ending of anxiety for those who have not yet obtained their discharge. As if to show the fundamental unimportance of material things, this year's Christmas may be the scarcest in availability of presents that the country has seen. While cigarettes are back, anything made of metal, to take but one example, is unbelievably scarce, and the lady of your heart can have no immediate hope of nylons. No one cares, however, with the one fear removed which for years swallowed up all other fears. Christmas is coming, and rejoicing is in the air. Will true peace and sincere good-will come with it?

LABOR STILL AHEAD
BROMLEY, a southeastern suburb of London, used to be safe for the Tory party by 25,000 majority. At the July election this was reduced to 6,000. The other day at a special election, despite the appeals of Churchill, Eden and other Tory bigwigs, the Conservative majority was cut slightly below this figure. Evidently Prime Minister Attlee still has a mandate from the people of Britain. One sign that peace is really here will be the return of rubber that erases the ends of lead pencils.

'ROUND CIRCLEVILLE . . . Hour by Hour

Pages From the Diary of An Antiquated Reporter:
Up to a gloomy morning and soon away to the plant, checking off a full force much to my surprise. Headed out and over the paves for the first time in more than a week, and it felt good not to be under the baleful eye of the foreman whose expression had plainly indicated his lack of esteem of me as a printer, even as a substitute taking the place of sick ones. But the two day job of tearing down, repairing and reassembling an ailing machine was pretty good. And surprising. It works.
Stood in surprise at Court and Main when Noah Warner came along spryly. Remarkable vim for a man of 94 Winters was my thought, and then turned to look squarely at Walter Gray, aged 97, also downtown on business. Cocked my hat at a new jaunty angle and hurried into Gallaher's for a bottle of vitamin pills.
Met Orville Trone, who retired after 30 years service in Uncle Sam's mail service. Looking as well as on the day he quit work and told me he was looking forward to his long vacation. Now, he is more than a little homesick for the old job. Finds retirement somewhat boring at times.
Harold Hott was in and told of his great pheasant hunting jaunt into South Dakota. Almost wore out his gun and got his full limit of birds. Benefited by the vacation, too. Listened with interest as a farmer told me of two recent appointments men seeking to buy his property with a view to building some of the many new houses we need so sorely. We will get many of them before too long. That is a promise.
In came Gayle Wolf, who entered the service in January of 1942, served throughout the war and now has re-enlisted. His log shows some 2,200 hours in the air as pilot of multi-motor planes, mostly ferry and transport with service in Central and other European countries and some time in Asia. Wears a captain's bars now, but may drop a rank in the regular Army. Likes flying and expects to make it his life work. He is young and smart and qualified. Appears as though his successful future is certain. At least I

NEWS BEHIND THE NEWS
By PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON, Dec. 1—A photographically nose weekly magazine is out currently with a yarn that Washington and congress have begun to turn against President Truman; that the Truman policy of getting good men and letting them have their heads in the cabinet and sub cabinet is not working out efficiently, presumably because the men are not good enough; that the departure of Judge Rosenman, the Rooseveltian fixer and the arrival at the presidential right hand of George Allen, a fine Democratic fellow, presages trouble; that the Republicans have awakened to expectations of victory—and so on.
That is not the way I get it. Such a picture presents merely the visible froth of a boiling internal condition of the government; true as far as it penetrates, but not penetrating. More thorough digging would reveal the matter something like this:
A tremendous inner struggle for direction of President Truman is going on between the old Roosevelt crowd and the party people; it ebbs and flows from week to week, day to day, and has not been concluded.
The Ickes-Wallace wing in the cabinet, together with the old new deal clique in congress, view with alarm the fact that the Roosevelt policies are not popular in the country and they are inclined to blame Truman. When they dare not express themselves openly, they spread their viewpoint in private and it reaches print in forms like the above-mentioned magazine story.
It is customary in politics for parties to follow their great beyond the grave. The Republicans ran on Abraham Lincoln for more than 50 years. The Rooseveltian associates would like to build up a political legend like that for the Democrats.
Unfortunately the times today do not fit the Roosevelt labor and spending doctrines, which were contrived for an era of depression and seem foolish in a postwar era of inflation.
Now Mr. Truman has followed and fought for every one of those policies from unemployment insurance and full employment (while there are still many more jobs than workers) up to spending (keeping his budget more than double Roosevelt's greatest peacetime expenditure). And he is maintaining expenditure at a time when purchasing power is much too strong for the amount of goods available.
He wanted to give labor a tremendous wage increase, and permitted the issue to go to negotiations, only when associates convinced him such a boost would add to purchasing power during the shortage of goods and surely bring inflationary ruin.
Thus he has doggedly stuck to a losing game, the Roosevelt game, and with normal human perversity, the new dealers blame him because their program failed to hold water. He did not "fight enough", they say.
Rosenman has now gone home for the final time, they also say. (He worked up the Roosevelt CIO-labor-spending program for Truman.) But Ickes, Wallace and the new dealers are still around, and, as for the political angle, Democratic Bob Hannegan is heavily and exclusively playing

DIET AND HEALTH
A Poor Appetite Caused By An Emotional Situation

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.
WHEN a person has a poor appetite, naturally he is not likely to eat as much as he should and a loss in weight results. The loss in weight in such persons may be even greater than in those who suffer from frequent attacks of vomiting.
There is one type of poor appetite known as anorexia nervosa. A person with this condition loses weight slowly but steadily. According to Doctor John M. Berkman of Rochester, Minnesota, the behavior of such patients is much like that of a spoiled child. The condition usually occurs in young women.
Indifference and Indecision
They are indifferent and indecisive as to their reasons for not eating, and apparently are unconcerned about their condition. Doctor Berkman points out that even though these patients do not eat enough food to keep their weight up, they seldom suffer from anemia or lack of coloring in the blood or have any striking evidences of vitamin deficiency.
Anorexia nervosa often begins during the maturing period. By the time the patient reaches the physician, the original reason for the refusal to eat has often been forgotten. However, it would appear that the usual cause for the condition is either some conflict with the parents, some resentment against certain things in the home or school life, resentment against authority, or disappointments over school or social achievements. Similar mental injuries are responsible for the beginning of the condition in older persons.
In treating anorexia nervosa the first step is to explain to the patient the nature of the disorder, in order to get her full cooperation. The diet at first contains about the caloric or heat value of the diet which the patient is accustomed to eating. Gradually the amount of calories is increased.
Rich Diet
The diet is especially rich in foods high in protein, vitamins, and bulk. This means plenty of meat, milk, eggs, fruits, vegetables and whole-grain cereals. The patient is encouraged and urged to eat everything offered, even though it may seem to cause some discomfort in the abdomen.
When the quantity of food estimated as sufficient, is tolerated by the patient, no further increases are made. However, the diet is continued until about five pounds over the normal weight is attained. Breakfast usually is the most difficult meal. As a rule, it is helpful to have the patient eat about five times a day so that smaller meals may be given.
With this type of treatment it has been found that within about two weeks, bodily strength increases; the mental state improves and a cure results.
QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS
M. M.: Will you please explain what causes my eyelids to feel heavy?
Answer: Heavy feeling in the eyelids may be the first symptom of some nervous system disturbance. It may also be due to general fatigue.
Careful study by a physician, preferably a neurologist, would be advisable.
East's double, and would have made it against a lead of the club A. South considered himself a better card player than his partner and then proceeded to prove he was not good enough.
When West led the club K, South had a chance to make his contract. But just see what he did. He led the heart 2 to the A, then brought out the spade 3 for a finesse of the Q. He laid down the A in the hope that he could drop the K, but it didn't work, and then he sent the spade J to that card. East thereupon made the damaging return, the heart 6. It was won in the dummy, which now had no other entries. So South used the heart Q for one diamond discard and then the heart J, which East ruffed, forcing an over-ruff with the spade 9 in his own hand to stay. South had to wind up losing three diamond tricks, so was down three.

A TOO COSTLY LUXURY
FINESSES ARE nice things to try. They undeniably offer you many chances to get tricks which otherwise are not possible, and to shut out winning cards belonging to your opponents. There are times, however, when a finesse is a luxury which costs much more than it is worth. Using up an entry to get into position for a finesse can destroy the entire timing of the hand in some situations and mean the loss of a lot of tricks, whereas avoiding the finesse would have paid rich dividends.
After the club lead was ruffed, South should have laid down the spade A and then led high spades until East used the K. Winning any return, South could have drawn trumps and discarded his diamond losers on hearts. An original heart lead, and later heart repeat, would have made the contract impossible, but nothing else could have.
Your Week-End Question
Under what kind of circumstances should a declarer lead a low card from the A-K-Q-4-2 of a suit toward the 10-9 in dummy?
After the club lead was ruffed, South should have laid down the spade A and then led high spades until East used the K. Winning any return, South could have drawn trumps and discarded his diamond losers on hearts. An original heart lead, and later heart repeat, would have made the contract impossible, but nothing else could have.

CHAPTER THIRTY-THREE
SUPERINTENDENT BATTLE looked around the bedroom. The bed had been made. Otherwise the room was unchanged. It had been neat when they first looked around it. It was neat now.
"That's it," said Superintendent Battle, pointing to the old-fashioned steel fender. "Do you see anything odd about that fender?"
"Must take some cleaning," said Jim Leach. "It's well kept. Nothing odd about it that I can see, except—yes, the left hand knob is brighter than the right hand one."
"That's what put Hercule Poirot into my head," said Battle. "You know his head about things not being quite symmetrical—gets him all worked up. I suppose I thought unconsciously, 'That would worry old Poirot' and then I began talking about him. Got your fingerprint kit, Jones?"
Jones reported presently.
"There are prints on the right hand knob, sir, none on the left."
"It's the left one we want, then. Those other prints are the housemaid's when she last cleaned it. That left hand one has been cleaned since."
"There was a bit of screwed up emery paper in this waste paper basket," volunteered Jones. "I didn't think it meant anything."
"Because you didn't know what you were looking for, then. Gently now, I'll bet anything you like, that knob unscrews—yes, I thought so."
Presently Jones held the knob up. "It's good weight," he said, weighing it in his hands.
Leach, bending over it, said: "There's something dark—on the screw."
"Blood, as likely as not," said Battle. "Cleaned the knob itself and wiped it, and that little stain on the screw wasn't noticed. I'll bet anything you like that the woman that cleaned the knob is the one who did it. But there's more to find. It's up to you, Jones, to search the house again. This time, you'll know exactly what you're looking for."
He gave a few swift detailed instructions. Going to the window he put his head out.
"There's something yellow tucked into the ivy. That may be another piece of the puzzle. I rather think it is."
Crossing the hall, Superintendent Battle was waylaid by Mary Aldin.
"Can I speak to you a minute, Superintendent?"
"Certainly, Miss Aldin. Shall we come in here?"
He threw open the dining room door. Lunch had been cleared away by Hurstall.
"I want to ask you something, Superintendent. Surely you don't, you can't still think that this—that awful crime was done by one of us? It must have been someone from outside! Some maniac!"
"You may not be far wrong there, Miss Aldin. Maniac is a word that describes this criminal very well. If I'm not mistaken. But not an outsider."
Her eyes opened very wide.
"Do you mean that someone in this house is a mad?"
"You're thinking," said the superintendent, "of someone foaming at the mouth and rolling their eyes. Mania isn't like that. Some of the most dangerous criminal lunatics have looked as sane as you or I. It's a question, usually, of having an obsession. One idea, preying on the mind, gradually distorting it. Father, reasonable people who come up to you and explain how they're being persecuted and how everyone is spying on them—and you sometimes feel it must all be true."
"I'm sure nobody here has any idea of being persecuted."
"I only gave that as an instance. There are other forms of insanity. But I believe whoever committed this crime was under the domination of one fixed idea—an idea on which they had brooded until—literally—nothing else mattered or had any importance."
Mary shivered. She said: "There's something, I think, you ought to know."
Concise and clearly she told him of Mr. Treves' visit to dinner and of the story he had told. Superintendent Battle was deeply interested. "He said he could recognize this person—man or woman—by the way?"
"I took it that it was a boy the story was about—but it's true Mr. Treves didn't actually say so—in fact, I remember now—he distinctly stated he would not give any particulars as to sex or age."
"Did he? Rather significant, perhaps. And he said there was a definite physical peculiarity by which he could be sure of knowing this child anywhere?"
"A scar, perhaps—has anybody here got a scar?"
He noticed the faint hesitation before Mary Aldin replied: "Not that I have noticed."
"Come now, Miss Aldin. He smiled. 'You HAVE noticed something. If so, don't you think that I shall be able to notice it, too?'"
She shook her head.
"I—I haven't noticed anything of the kind."
But he saw that she was startled and upset. His words had obviously suggested a very unpleasant train of thought to her. He wished he knew just what it was, but his experience made him aware that to press her at this minute would not yield any result.
He brought the conversation back to old Mr. Treves.
Mary told him of the tragic sequel of the evening.
Battle questioned her at some length. Then he said quietly: "That's a new one on me. Never come across that before."
"What do you mean?"
"I've never come across a murder committed by the simple expedient of hanging a placard on a lift."
She looked horrified.
"You don't really think—?"
"That it was murder? Of course it was! Quick, resourceful murder. It might not have come off, of course—but it did come off."
"Just because Mr. Treves knew—?"
"Yes. Because he would have been able to direct our attention to one particular person in this house. As it is, we've started in the dark. But we've got a glimmer of light now, and every minute the case is getting clearer. I'll tell you this, Miss Aldin—this murder was very carefully planned beforehand down to the smallest detail. And I want to impress one thing on your mind—don't let anybody know that you've told me what you have. That is important. Don't tell anyone, mind."
Mary nodded. She was still looking dazed.
Superintendent Battle went out of the room and proceeded to do what he had been about to do when Mary Aldin intercepted him. He was a methodical man. He wanted certain information and a new and promising lead did not distract him from the orderly performance of his duties, however tempting this new lead might be.
He tapped on the library door, and Neville Strange's voice called, "Come in."
Battle was introduced to Mr. Trevelyan, a tall, distinguished looking man with a keen dark eye.
"Sorry if I am butting in," said Superintendent Battle apologetically. "But there's something I haven't got clear. You, Mr. Strange, inherit half the late Sir Matthew's estate, but who inherits the other half?"
Neville looked surprised.
"I told you, my wife."
"Yes. But—" Battle coughed in a deprecating manner, "which wife, Mr. Strange?"
"Oh, I see. Yes, I expressed myself badly. The money goes to Audrey, who was my wife at the time the will was made. That's right, Mr. Trevelyan?"
The lawyer assented.
"The bequest is quite clearly worded. The estate is to be divided between Sir Matthew's ward, Neville Henry Strange, and his wife, Audrey Elizabeth Strange, nee Standish. The subsequent divorce makes no difference whatever."
"That's clear, then," said Battle. "I take it Mrs. Audrey Strange is fully aware of these facts?"
"Certainly," said Mr. Trevelyan. "And the present Mrs. Strange?"
"Kay?" Neville looked slightly surprised. "Oh, I suppose so. At least—I've never talked much about it with her—"
"I think you'll find," said Battle, "that she's under a misapprehension. She thinks that the money on Lady Trevelyan's death comes to you and your PRESENT wife. At least, that's what she gave me to understand this morning. That's why I came along to find out how the position really lay."
"How extraordinary," said Neville. "Still, I suppose it might have happened quite easily. She has said once or twice, now that I think about it, 'we come into that money when Camilla dies,' but I suppose I assumed that she was just associating herself with me in my share of it."
"It's extraordinary," said Battle. "The amount of misunderstanding—there are even between two people who discuss a thing quite often—of the two assuming different things and neither of them discovering the discrepancy."
"I suppose so," said Neville, not sounding very interested. "It does not matter much in this case, anyway. It's not as though we're short of money at all. I'm very glad for Audrey. She has been very hard up and this will make a big difference to her."
Battle said bluntly: "But, surely, sir, at the time of the divorce, she was entitled to an allowance from you?"
Neville flushed. He said in a constrained voice: "There is such a thing as—as pride, Superintendent. I. Audrey has always been a very proud woman, to touch a penny of the allowance I wished to make her."
"A very generous allowance," put in Mr. Trevelyan. "But Mrs. Audrey Strange has always returned it and refused to accept it."
"Very interesting," said Battle, and went out before anyone could ask him to elaborate that comment. He went and found his nephew. "On his face value," he said, "there's a nice monetary motive for nearly everybody in this case. Neville Strange and Audrey Strange got a cool fifty thousand each. Kay Strange thinks she's entitled to fifty thousand. Mary Aldin gets an income that frees her from having to earn her living. Thomas Royde, I'm bound to say, doesn't gain. But we can include Hurstall and even Barrett if we admit that she'd take the risk of finishing herself off to avoid suspicion. Yes, as I say, there are no lack of money motives. And yet, if I'm right, money does enter into this at all. If there's such a thing as a murder for pure hate, this is it. And if no one comes along and throws a spanner into the works, I'm going to get the person who did it!"
Afterwards he wondered what had put that particular phase into his head just then—Andrew MacWhirter had been around at Easterhead Bay on the preceding Saturday.

Horoscope for Sunday
Diplomacy, excellent manners, erratic, emotional or quixotic ideas.
For Sunday, December 2
SUNDAY'S horoscope holds most alluring prospects for the gaiety, thrills and romantic adventures of youth and those of similar quest and objective, with perhaps strange, unique or glamorous experiences too challenging to define in practical symbols, as also there are connotations of spiritual, cultural and artistic joys and aspirations.
However, any such urges or emotions carried to excess might precipitate a serious crash and punctured ambitions or objectives.
Those whose birthday it is have a most dramatic prospect of attaining their highest hopes and wishes, in private, social, professional and business life, with romance and thrills in all such adventures. And while high peaks of accomplishment are in sight, there is also the menace of a sudden crash or debacle of these—indicated by erratic, irregular, strange or freak tactics or ideas, in which sound judgment is sidestepped for emotional or erratic impulses. Shun hunches and gambles.
A child born on this day may possess ambitious and dramatic desires, hopes and wishes, yearning for adventure, romance and spectacular experiences likely to culminate in sensational crash.

Eastern Star Officers Installed At Meeting

Miss Hamilton Is In Charge Of Ceremony

Impressive ceremonies conducted Friday evening for installation of the officers of the local chapter Order of Eastern Star in Masonic Temple raised Mrs. Frank Bowling, Jackson township, to the office of worthy matron.

Mrs. Emmett Barnhart, outgoing worthy matron opened the special meeting and welcomed Miss Marie L. Hamilton, past grand matron and then spoke to the members and thanked them for the cooperation that had been accorded her during her term of office.

Miss Hamilton, past grand matron, acted as installing officer assisted by Mrs. Helen C. Young, Frankfort, deputy grand matron, as grand installing marshal and Mrs. Clarence McAbee, grand representative as grand installing chaplain. Mrs. F. K. Blair, grand installing conductress, Mrs. George Foerst, grand installing warder, Will Hamilton, grand installing sentinel, Mrs. Richard McAllister, grand installing organist and Mrs. Harold Defenbaugh, grand installing soloist. For her numbers Mrs. Defenbaugh sang, "Prayer Perfect" by James Whitcomb Riley and "Ye Are the Light of the World" by Frank LaFarge.

The elective officers installed were Mrs. Bowling, worthy matron; Homer Reber, worthy patron; Mrs. Frank Reichelderfer, associate matron; Arthur Sark, associate patron; Mrs. Cecil Noecker, secretary; Mrs. W. B. Cady, treasurer; Mrs. Robert Goodchild, conductress; Mrs. John Magill, associate conductress; Mrs. Clarence Thorne, chaplain. Other officers who were appointed to serve with the elective and installed at this time were Mrs. Kenneth Robbins, marshal; Mrs. Joseph Peters, organist; Miss Virginia Marion, Adah; Mrs. Karl Johnson, Ruth; Mrs. Joseph Brink, Esther; Miss Kathryn Bochar, Martha; Mrs. Arthur Sark, Electa; Mrs. Homer Reber, warder and Earl Hilyard, sentinel.

The star point ceremony was conducted by Mrs. Carl Bennett and Miss Marie Hogan, Cattleburg, Ky., a sister of Mrs. Bowling who is her house guest.

Following the installation services, Mrs. F. K. Blair presented Mrs. Barnhart with a past matron's jewel, a gift of the chapter and Earl Hilyard in the name of the chapter gave a gift to J. Sam Morris, outgoing patron.

Tall green and white tapers lighted the table in the dining room to which the members were invited at the close of the chapter. A low bowl of white snapdragons centered the table from which the diners were served buffet style.

Mrs. A. J. Lyle was in charge of the decorations and the refreshment committee was composed of Mrs. Charles Smith, Mrs. R. S. Denman, Mrs. Earl Price, Mrs. Dwight Steele, Mrs. Leslie May, Mrs. Lawrence Johnson, Mrs. G. H. Adkins and Mrs. Harry Griner.

Harper Bible Class Members Entertain Chillicothe Group

Members of the Harper Bible class of the First United Brethren church entertained the members of Married Couple's class of Tyler United Brethren church, Chillicothe, Friday evening at the local church.

Ray Johnson, president of Harper Bible class welcomed the guests after which the entire group sang "We've a Story to Tell to the Nation" The Rev. Carl L. Wilson gave the scripture reading from St. John, and led in prayer.

The program which was presented by the local class consisted of a number "Speak My Lord" by a quartet composed of Montford Kirkwood, Charles Kirkpatrick, Mrs. Ray Johnson and Mrs. Sheldon Canter. This quartet then led the group in singing "The More We Get Together". Readings were given by Mrs. Clarence Radcliff.

MISS BAXTER, NELSON LAPE ARE MARRIED

The Rev. B. F. Borcoman officiated at the quiet marriage ceremony Friday evening in Calvary Evangelical church which united Miss Louella May Baxter and Nelson Franklin Lape in the holy bonds of matrimony.

For her wedding, the bride who is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Baxter, East Mound street, chose a rose colored street dress with which she combined black accessories. A corsage of gardenias and a locket, a gift of the bridegroom, added to her ensemble.

Her sister, Mrs. D. D. Schnepf, Selma, Alabama, served as matron of honor. Her dress was a two-piece brown velvet with matching hat. Her bouquet was of bronze chrysanthemums.

The Rev. Wayne Baxter, Guysville, brother of the bride, acted as best man for Mr. Lape.

Only the members of the immediate families and a few close friends were present for the ceremony and the reception which followed at the home of the bride's parents.

Mrs. Lape is a graduate of the Circleville high school with the class of 1934 and her husband with the class of 1931.

Following a brief wedding trip they will return and will make their home for the present with the bride's parents. Mr. Lape is employed as a salesman with the Pettit Appliance store.

MEN'S DAY TO BE OBSERVED AT U. B. CHURCH

"Rebuilding With Christ" will be the general theme of the Morning Worship at the First United Brethren Church, Sunday, when Men's Day will be observed.

Concerning this general theme, the pastor, the Rev. Carl L. Wilson, comments: "It is not a mere coincidence that Jesus was a builder by trade. It was symbolic and prophetic of the great work which He was to do—the rebuilding of men who in turn would become 'Workers Together With God' in building the Kingdom of Heaven. Recently men have been at work destroying human life, property and all those other things which we counted so dear. Such efforts have arrived at the place where we have discovered a way which may eventually destroy every vestige of our civilization. It is safe to say it will unless we begin now to Rebuild With Christ."

The pastor will preside with the program following the regular morning worship order of service. Ray Johnson, president of the Harper Bible Class, will lead the responsive reading. Sheldon Canter, Sunday School superintendent and president of the trustee board, will offer the prayer. The Rev. C. W. Speakman, former pastor of the Dennison, Ohio, United Brethren Church, will be the guest speaker. He has chosen the theme "Unconsciously Lost" with the text from Judges 16:20.

The choir under the direction of Charles Kirkpatrick will offer the anthem "Give Thanks Unto The Lord" by Rossini, arranged by Carrie B. Adams. Miss Lucille Kirkwood has arranged her organ numbers with the prelude, "Chanson Pastorale" by Harris; offertory, "Adagio" by Schumann and postlude, "Allegro Con Moto" by Sheppard.

The Junior Church will visit with the Senior congregation in honor of Men's Day.

At 7:30 p. m. the Rev. Wilson will deliver an evangelistic message on the theme "Urgent Business" from the text, St. John 9:4.

Scripture—Deut. 8:17, 18; Psalm 50:7-11; Malachi 3:8-10; Luke 12:13-21; 18:18-24; Acts. 2:41-47; James 2:15, 16; 5:1-6

By Alfred J. Buescher

To gain eternal life Jesus told a rich young man to sell all that he had and give it to the poor. When he went sadly away, Jesus said, "How hardly shall they that have riches enter into the kingdom of God."

"Go to now, ye rich men, weep and howl for your miseries that shall come upon you. Behold, the hire of the labourers who have reaped down your fields, which you have kept back by fraud, crieth."

Eastern Star Officers Installed At Meeting

Miss Hamilton Is In Charge Of Ceremony

Impressive ceremonies conducted Friday evening for installation of the officers of the local chapter Order of Eastern Star in Masonic Temple raised Mrs. Frank Bowling, Jackson township, to the office of worthy matron.

Mrs. Emmitt Barnhart, outgoing worthy matron opened the special meeting and welcomed Miss Marie L. Hamilton, past grand matron and then spoke to the members and thanked them for the cooperation that had been accorded her during her term of office.

Miss Hamilton, past grand matron, acted as installing officer assisted by Mrs. Helen C. Young, Frankfort, deputy grand matron, as Grand installing marshal and Mrs. Clarence McAbee, grand representative as grand installing chaplain. Mrs. F. K. Blair, grand installing conductress, Mrs. George Foerster, grand installing warder, Will Hamilton, grand installing sentinel, Mrs. Richard McAllister, grand installing organist and Mrs. Harold Defenbaugh, grand installing soloist. For her numbers Mrs. Defenbaugh sang, "Prayer Perfect" by James Whitcomb Riley and "Ye Are the Light of the World" by Frank LaForge.

The elective officers installed were Mrs. Bowling, worthy matron; Homer Reber, worthy patron; Mrs. Frank Reichelderfer, associate matron; Arthur Sark, associate patron; Mrs. Cecil Noecker, secretary; Mrs. W. B. Cady, treasurer; Mrs. Robert Goodchild, conductress; Mrs. John Magill, associate conductress; Mrs. Clarence Thorne, chaplain. Other officers who were appointed to serve with the elective and installed at this time were Mrs. Kenneth Robbins, marshal; Mrs. Joseph Peters, organist; Miss Virginia Marion, Adah; Mrs. Karl Johnson, Ruth; Mrs. Joseph Brink, Esther; Miss Kathryn Bochar, Martha; Mrs. Arthur Sark, Electa; Mrs. Homer Reber, warder and Earl Hilyard, sentinel.

The star point ceremony was conducted by Mrs. Carl Bennett and Miss Marie Hogan, Cattleburg, Ky., a sister of Mrs. Bowling who is her house guest.

Following the installation services, Mrs. F. K. Blair presented Mrs. Barnhart with a past matron's jewel, a gift of the chapter and Earl Hilyard in the name of the chapter gave a gift to J. Sam Morris, outgoing patron.

Tall green and white tapers lighted the table in the dining room to which the members were invited at the close of the chapter.

A low bowl of white snapdragons centered the table from which the diners were served buffet style.

Mrs. A. J. Lyle was in charge of the decorations and the refreshment committee was composed of Mrs. Charles Smith, Mrs. R. S. Denman, Mrs. Earl Price, Mrs. Dwight Steele, Mrs. Leslie May, Mrs. Lawrence Johnson, Mrs. G. H. Adkins and Mrs. Harry Griner.

Group C of the Presbyterian church met Friday evening at the home of Mrs. Fred Howell, Reber avenue, with Mrs. Richard Robinson as joint hostess.

The devotionals were in charge of Mrs. W. C. Watson, who gave a resume of Christianity in Japan and the struggle that the Christian Japanese are having in this critical period of reconstruction.

Mrs. E. O. Crites group chairman, conducted the business meeting which followed. Plans were formulated for the December meeting which will be held at the home of Mrs. Leland Pontious, North Court street. Each member will be asked to bring a cash gift which will be used to buy needed articles to be sent to the Missionary center in Manila. This will be done instead of the usual group exchange of small gifts.

Mrs. Leland Pontious gave a report on the amount of paper articles which the group has on hand that could be sold for Christmas gifts.

The program was an informal talk given by Mrs. Blanch Y. Mutschman recently returned veteran of the Women's Army Corp. Refreshments were served in the candle light dining room.

Refreshments were served to 65 members and guests in the Community house at the close of the meeting.

MISS BAXTER, NELSON LAPE ARE MARRIED

The Rev. B. F. Borcoman officiated at the quiet marriage ceremony Friday evening in Calvary Evangelical church which united Miss Louella May Baxter and Nelson Franklin Lape in the holy bonds of matrimony.

For her wedding, the bride who is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Baxter, East Mound street, chose a rose colored dress with which she combined black accessories. A corsage of gardenias and a locket, a gift of the bridegroom, added to her ensemble.

Her sister, Mrs. D. D. Schnepf, Selma, Alabama, served as matron of honor. Her dress was a two-piece brown velvet with matching hat. Her bouquet was of bronze chrysanthemums.

The Rev. Wayne Baxter, Guysville, brother of the bride, acted as best man for Mr. Lape.

Only the members of the immediate families and a few close friends were present for the ceremony and the reception which followed at the home of the bride's parents.

Mrs. Lape is a graduate of the Circleville high school with the class of 1934 and her husband with the class of 1931.

Following a brief wedding trip they will return and will make their home for the present with the bride's parents. Mr. Lape is employed as a salesman with the Pettit Appliance store.

MEN'S DAY TO BE OBSERVED AT U. B. CHURCH

"Rebuilding With Christ" will be the general theme of the Morning Worship at the First United Brethren Church, Sunday, when Men's Day will be observed.

Concerning this general theme, the pastor, the Rev. Carl L. Wilson, comments: "It is not a mere coincidence that Jesus was a builder by trade. It was symbolic and prophetic of the great work which He was to do—the rebuilding of men who in turn would become 'Workers Together With God' in building the Kingdom of Heaven. Recently men have been at work destroying human life, property and all those other things which we counted so dear. Such efforts have arrived at the place where we have discovered a way which may eventually destroy every vestige of our civilization. It is safe to say it will unless we begin now to Rebuild With Christ."

The pastor will preside with the program following the regular morning worship order of service. Ray Johnson, president of the Harper Bible Class, will lead the responsive reading. Sheldon Canter, Sunday School superintendent and president of the trustee board, will offer the prayer. The Rev. C. W. Speakman, former pastor of the Dennison, Ohio, United Brethren Church, will be the guest speaker. He has chosen the theme "Unconsciously Lost" with the text from Judges 16:20.

The choir under the direction of Charles Kirkpatrick will offer the anthem "Give Thanks Unto The Lord" by Rossini, arranged by Carrie B. Adams. Miss Lucille Kirkwood has arranged her organ numbers with the prelude, "Chanson Pastorale" by Harris; offertory, "Adagio" by Schumann and postlude, "Allegro Con Moto" by Sheppard.

The Junior Church will visit with the senior congregation in honor of Men's Day.

At 7:30 p. m. the Rev. Wilson will deliver an evangelistic message on the theme "Urgent Business" from the text, St. John 9:4.

ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By Alfred J. Buescher

"Will a man rob God?" asked the Lord. "Bring ye all the tithes into the storehouse, that there may be meat in mine house . . . and prove Me now . . . if I will not open you the windows of heaven and pour you out a blessing."

A man asked the Master to speak to his brother that he divide the inheritance with him. Jesus reproved him, warning of covetousness, "for a man's life consisteth not of the abundance of the things which he possesseth."

To gain eternal life Jesus told a rich young man to sell all that he had and give it to the poor. When he went sadly away, Jesus said, "How hardly shall they that have riches enter into the kingdom of God."

"Go to now, ye rich men, weep and howl for your miseries that shall come upon you. . . Behold, the hire of the labourers who have reaped down your fields, which you have kept back by fraud, crieth."

ASHVILLE DROPS 41-38 THRILLER TO GROVEPORT 5

Ashville, taking a layoff from Pickaway county league play, dropped a 41-38 game at Groveport Friday night.

The game was close all the way and Groveport won in the last half.

The teams were tied at 8-all at the first rest, 13-13 at the half and Groveport led 32-30 at the three-quarter mark.

Millies led the scoring with 13 points for Groveport. Woodworth had 9, Trego and Pettibone, playing his first game of the season, 8 each for Ashville.

Groveport's rangy team had too much height for Ashville. Brown, six foot six inch center, and Millies controlled the bankboards. Brown scored three tip-in baskets within the first minute of the third quarter to give his team the lead that eventually won the game. Hesel hit three consecutive long shots, all well past the middle of the floor during the third quarter rally.

NEWS Behind the NEWS

the Roosevelt game, trying to save the Pearl Harbor inquiry from too much inquisitiveness, lauding Mrs. Roosevelt, etc.

Now congress is scared of this, which it sees. Congress faces the polls next year, long before Truman. Congressmen are preponderantly against the program and would take leadership openly to face the economic facts of the hour, but they feel the necessity for political caution. They are trimming expenditures, delaying the CIO bills—but quietly.

The worst of the matter is labor picked a bad time to strike. With people panting for automobiles, and the nation eager for humming production in all lines; high prices going higher and money, money, money everywhere anxious to be spent—the unions stop production.

Their strikes, therefore, developed the nature of revolt against the public, the government and postwar success of the nation. If they had waited until purchasing power started to lag, and the goods shortage was absorbed by production, they would have had a better case, and would have gained public support.

This is the long running inner condition, which, as I said, fluctuates from week to week.

Bronco Kusanovich

PENN STATE, beaten only once this year, boasts two centers who may qualify for the honor of being the "highest scoring" snapper-backs in collegiate football. The two are Bronco Kusanovich, who has scored two touchdowns, and Bob McCoy, who also has racked up 12 points.

Walnut Drops Thriller To Perry; Williamsport, Holland, Pickaway Win

Walnut dropped from the unbeaten ranks of the Pickaway county high school basketball league Friday night by losing a thrilling overtime game to Perry.

Three foul shots in the overtime period gave the Atlanta team a 35-34 decision over a hard-fighting Walnut club. The score was tied at 32-all when the final gun sounded.

In the overtime Joe Drake made good on one of two free throws to put Perry ahead 33-32. C. Bumgarner sank a basket to give Walnut a 34-33 edge. Then Drake was fouled again and he knotted the count at 34-all. With time running out Joe Overly was fouled. He calmly stepped up to the free-throw line and dropped in the game-winning point.

Perry led 9-5 the first period and 19-15 at the half. In the third period Walnut caught up and the quarter ended 27-27. The teams battled on even terms the last period, too.

Atlanta was slowed down in the first part of the game when Drake acquired four fouls, but he came back in time to play a big part in the victory. R. Bumgarner had four fouls early for Walnut but managed to last out the game and set the scoring pace with 14 points. Brinker did not fare so well, being forced out with too many personals in the fourth quarter. Joe Hobbie had 12 points for Perry; Williams, one of the Perry regulars, missed the game because of illness.

In a low-scoring reserve game Walnut won 9-8. N. Barr got six of the Walnut points.

In other county games New Holland crushed Jackson 57-22; Williamsport won 71-21 from Derby and Pickaway margined Washington 39-28. Monroe and Salt creek game was postponed because of the illness of several Salt creek players.

Fifteen New Holland players played during the game with Jackson. New Holland took an 11-1 first quarter lead; was ahead 23-5 at the half and 48-9 at the end of the third period. Jackson did not score a field goal until the last period.

Jack Doyle and Jim McCown did most of the scoring. Doyle had 23 points and McCown 18. Bidwell's 7 was high for the losers.

New Holland 7th and 8th grade team won the preliminary, 26-18. Jimmy Picklesimer scored 16 points as Deercreek copped a rough game from Darby at Williamsport. Williamsport led all the way but the Darby boys stayed right in there and kept the score close. Rogers was high man for the losers with 9 points. Williamsport led 11-6 the first period; 17-8 at the half and 26-15 at the end of the third quarter.

Ogan and Ritchie counted 13 points each for Pickaway against Washington. Kraft made 9 points for the losers. Pickaway hopped into a 13-5 first quarter count, was on top 21-12 at the half and 31-19 at the three-quarter mark. Sharrett and Evans, ill with the flu, were out of the Pickaway lineup.

Pickaway reserves ran up a 58-18 score on Washington reserves.

LANCASTER IS 51-34 WINNER OVER CHS FIVE

Hennis Counts 18 Points
As Tigers Drop Opener;
Reserves Lose 38-34

Circleville high school cagers dropped a 51-34 game to Lancaster as the local basketball season opened Friday night in Roll and Bowl.

The game was close during the first half but superior height paid off for Lancaster and the Gales pulled away during the second half.

Circleville took a 2-0 lead a few seconds after the game opened but two foul shots by Wildermuth knotted the count early and Lancaster ran it to 6-2 before the Tigers scored again. From then on until near the end of the first half the Tigers battled only a few points behind and tied the score at 15-all as Leonard Hill and Jack Hennis made quick baskets early in the second quarter.

By halftime the Gales led 27-19 and in the third period they ran it up to 38-24.

Hennis led the scoring in the game with 18 points. For Lancaster Wildermuth had 14 and Short marked up 12.

Thirty-five personal fouls were called in the game, 18 on Lancaster and 17 on the Tigers. Wilson Clark went out for too many violations in the final period. Fultz acquired four but the rest of the Lancaster personals were well-scattered. The Tigers made good on only four of their 22 chances from the free throw line. Lancaster made 13 of 20 tries good.

Coach John Daugherty used eight players as he sought a working combination in his first game as CHS cage coach.

"Skeet" Smallwood scored 18 points as the reserves lost a 38-34 battle

ASHVILLE DROPS 41-38 THRILLER TO GROVEPORT 5

Ashville, taking a layoff from Pickaway county league play, dropped a 41-38 game at Groveport Friday night.

The game was close all the way and Groveport won in the last half. The teams were tied at 8-all at the first rest, 13-13 at the half and Groveport led 32-30 at the three-quarter mark.

Millies led the scoring with 13 points for Groveport. Woodworth had 9, Trego and Pettibone, playing his first game of the season, 8 each for Ashville.

Groveport's rangy team had too much height for Ashville. Brown, six foot six inch center, and Millies, controlled the boards. Brown scored three tip-in baskets within the first minute of the third quarter to give his team the lead that eventually won the game. Hesel hit three consecutive long shots all well past the middle of the floor during the third quarter rally.

Walnut Drops Thriller To Perry; Williamsport, Holland, Pickaway Win

Walnut dropped from the unbeaten ranks of the Pickaway county high school basketball league Friday night by losing a thrilling overtime game to Perry.

Three foul shots in the overtime period gave the Atlanta team a 35-34 decision over a hard-fighting Walnut club. The score was tied at 32-all when the final gun sounded.

In the overtime Joe Drake made good on one of two free throws to put Perry ahead 33-32. C. Bumgarner sank a basket to give Walnut a 34-33 edge. Then Drake was fouled again and he knotted the count at 34-all. With time running out Joe Overly was fouled. He calmly stepped up to the free-throw line and dropped in the game-winning point.

Perry led 9-5 the first period and 19-15 at the half. In the third period Walnut caught up and the quarter ended 27-27. The teams battled on even terms the last period, too.

Atlanta was slowed down in the first part of the game when Drake acquired four fouls, but he came back in time to play a big part in the victory. R. Bumgarner had four fouls early for Walnut but managed to last out the game and set the scoring pace with 14 points. Brinker did not fare so well, being forced out with too many personals in the fourth quarter. Joe Hobbie had 12 points for Perry. Williams, one of the Perry regulars, missed the game because of illness.

In a low-scoring reserve game Walnut won 9-8. N. Barr got six of the Walnut points.

In other county games New Holland crushed Jackson 57-22; Williamsport won 31-21 from Derby and Pickaway margined Washington 39-28. Monroe and Salt Creek game was postponed because of the illness of several Salt Creek players.

Fifteen New Holland players played during the game with Jackson. New Holland took an 11-1 first quarter lead; was ahead 23-5 at the half and 48-9 at the end of the third period. Jackson did not score a field goal until the last period.

Jack Doyle and Jim McCown did most of the scoring. Doyle had 23 points and McCown 18. Bidwell's 7 was high for the losers.

New Holland 7th and 8th grade team won the preliminary, 26-18. Jimmy Picklesimer scored 16 points as Deercreek copped a rough game from Darby at Williamsport. Williamsport led all the way but the Darby boys stayed right in there and kept the score close. Rogers was high man for the losers with 9 points. Williamsport led 11-6 the first period; 17-8 at the half and 26-15 at the end of the third quarter.

Ogan and Ritchie counted 13 points each for Pickaway against Washington. Kraft made 9 points for the losers. Pickaway hopped into a 13-5 first quarter count, was on top 21-12 at the half and 31-19 at the three-quarter mark. Sharrett and Evans, ill with the flu, were out of the Pickaway lineup.

Pickaway reserves ran up a 58-18 score on Washington reserves.

MIAMI BOOSTS STOCK

MIAMI, Fla., Dec. 1.—Miami university president, Bowman Ashe, joined his student body today in hoping that last night's 33 to 7 upset over Auburn commanded sufficient attention to put Miami in the Orange Bowl football game against Holy Cross. Overlooking Miami's brilliant record, which was marred only by a 27 to 21 defeat by Georgia early in the season, the Orange Bowl committee searched elsewhere until last week when it became apparent that they might do better in their own home town.

Hennis Counts 18 Points As Tigers Drop Opener; Reserves Lose 38-34

Circleville high school cagers dropped a 51-34 game to Lancaster as the local basketball season opened Friday night in Roll and Bowl.

The game was close during the first half but superior height paid off for Lancaster and the Gales pulled away during the second half.

Circleville took a 2-0 lead a few seconds after the game opened but two foul shots by Wildermuth knotted the count early and Lancaster ran it to 6-2 before the Tigers scored again. From then on until near the end of the first half the Tigers battled only a few points behind and tied the score at 15-all as Leonard Hill and Jack Hennis made quick baskets early in the second quarter.

By halftime the Gales led 27-19 and in the third period they ran it up to 38-24.

Hennis led the scoring in the game with 18 points. For Lancaster Wildermuth had 14 and Short marked up 12.

Thirty-five personal fouls were called in the game, 18 on Lancaster and 17 on the Tigers. Wilson Clark went out for too many violations in the final period. Fultz acquired four but the rest of the Lancaster personals were well-scattered. The Tigers made good on only four of their 22 chances from the free throw line. Lancaster made 13 of 20 tries good.

Coach John Daugherty used eight players as he sought a working combination in his first game as CHS cage coach.

"Skeet" Smallwood scored 18 points as the reserves lost a 38-34 battle to the Gales reserves. Lancaster led 11-7 the first quarter, 23-17 at the half and 28-26 at the three-quarter mark. Bill Barnes had 13 points for Lancaster before he went out on personals. Thirty-one personals were called in this game, 15 on Lancaster and 16 on Coach Steve Brudzinski's boys.

102,000 FANS ARE PRESENT AT SERVICE GAME

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 1.—

After a year of waiting and a season of fretting, Army and Navy squared off on the turf of Municipal stadium today in the first all-undefeated classic of their long, hard fought series.

With President Truman heading a horde of 102,000 fans, the "game of the year" returned to its pre-war setting after semi-private showings at Annapolis, West Point and Baltimore the past three years.

And as the two titans of the college football world stepped out for a 1:30 p. m. EST, kickoff in weather that was clear and cold, Army's crashing Cadets ruled a 26½ point favorite. It was a case of "damn the torpedoes" as the Hudson sought from up the second consecutive unbeaten and untied campaign with its 18th win in a row.

"But we'll give them a helluva battle," said Navy Coach Comm. Oscar Hagberg, who heads back to the sea after this game—one he'd sure like to take back for the fellows in the fleet.

Pickaway County Making Plans For Peacetime Christmas Season

MANY ARTICLES FOR GIFTS ARE STILL SCARCE

Large Holiday Buying Spree Expected; Many Special Events Planned

Pickaway county is getting ready for its first peacetime Christmas in four years but from present indications there will be little change in gift-buying from wartime years.

When the war ended the public expected a quick return to the store shelves of all the articles that had been scarce during the past three Christmas buying seasons.

Early shoppers have been disillusioned in most instances. Some articles can be found but many of the standard gift items are still among the missing. Toys, men's clothing, children's clothing, silk and nylon hose, household appliances and many other "old reliables" are still among the missing. The small amount of these articles which arrive here are sold quickly.

However, Circleville stores are expecting their biggest Christmas buying spree of the year Saturday. Some far-sighted individuals have been purchasing Christmas gifts during the last few weeks but the average person has been "putting it off". But with December starting most are beginning to realize that there is not much time left and they will be invading the stores to find suitable gifts, or at least something that may be given to friends and relatives.

While the general public is desperately trying to solve the annual task of filling out the gift list plans are being made for special events. Circleville Chamber of Commerce will meet Monday noon to discuss plans for observance of the holiday season. With the wartime ban off decorations something may be planned for the business area of Circleville.

Junior Chamber of Commerce is making plans for a county high school band festival and other special Christmas projects. The Kiwanis Club is planning its annual C party for the Children's home on Monday before Christmas. Other organizations and all churches plan special events.

County and city schoolchildren will get a long Christmas vacation. School will be dismissed Friday afternoon December 21 and resume Wednesday morning January 2, giving the children 11 full days for enjoyment of the holiday season. Many special programs are planned for the schools before the vacation begins.

City and state officials have urged that this first peacetime Christmas be a safe Christmas. Mayor Ben H. Gordon has asked all citizens to avoid "Holidayng" by observing safety rules carefully.

"This is the Christmas we have been awaiting," Mayor Gordon said, "this is the Christmas when the spirit of peace should permeate every heart. An accident will destroy that spirit for members of an affected family. Therefore let us make an effort to avoid accidents during the holiday season."

"If we are careful, considerate and courteous, we can further this cause for ourselves and our fellow men. Above all, let us remember to hold down our speed on the streets and highways to a sensible figure, especially since cars are far below pre-war standards."

Governor Frank Lausche has also asked for a safe Christmas, by suggesting that there be no smoking in retail stores that will be jammed with people and filled with Christmas decorations.

FAIR BOARD DECIDES 'TO LOOK AROUND SOME MORE'

The Pickaway county fair board decided at its meeting in Betz's restaurant Friday noon to "look around some more" before approving purchase of corrugated iron buildings for the fair grounds that have been offered for sale by the government.

The fair board members decided that representatives should visit fair grounds in surrounding counties to get a few ideas about the type of buildings needed before making any purchases. The buildings considered were originally made to be used as garages, but were declared surplus upon the war end.

GOP COMMITTEE REPORTS SUGAR SUPPLY LARGER

WASHINGTON, Dec. 1—Sugar supplies for next year will be substantially larger, the Republican congressional food study committee said today in urging easing of allocations for the first quarter of 1946.

Rep. Bartel J. Jonkman, R., Mich., committee member, said there should be 1,500,000 more tons of sugar for civilians in 1946 than the approximately 5,000,000 tons available this year.

He called upon government officials "to announce revised industrial quotas immediately so that food manufacturers can plan for next year."

In a speech prepared for delivery in the house, Jonkman blamed government "mismanaged procurement" for the continuance of sugar rationing which, department of agriculture officials have said, likely will continue through 1946.

Jonkman said the department and OPA should announce next year's allotments immediately if they are truly "interested in the welfare of the American people."
